Clergy Camp

July 3-8, 2016 | Colorado State University

(Optional: Stay for Shabbat, July 8-10)

During Smicha Week (Sunday – Thursday) in Fort Collins, at Colorado State University

Single Room: $1,480/person | Double Room: $1,360/person

Add'l for Shabbat Weekend: Single Room: +$285/person | Double Room +$240/person

Morning shiur, "Geirut as a Spiritual Endeavor," taught by Rabbi Jeffrey Fox, Rosh Yeshiva of Maharat in the Bronx. Afternoon skills practicum, "The Role of Feelings in Community, Leadership, and Change," taught by Rev. Dr. Bill Kondrath, Emeritus Professor of Pastoral Theology and Director of Theological Field Education Episcopal Divinity School, Cambridge. Evening Hashpa'ah Circles provide spiritual processing and integration. All davening and meals shared with ALEPH Smicha Week students and faculty; accommodations on site.

Attendees are expected to fully participate in all three intensives. This is the Beta-Test year. Therefore, only the first 15 qualified applicants will be accepted, and attendees will be asked to share impressions and feedback in depth at the conclusion of the week.

Program open to all ALEPH musmachim and OHALAH members currently practicing in the field. Register online at www.ALEPH.org, and click on the programs link titled "Clergy Camp."
